REPUBLICAN TICKET.

Election, Tuesday, Nov. 7th.

CONGRESSIONAL TICKET.

For Congress—First District—
CHARLES C. WILLIAMS, of Rock.

The average cost of raising cattle in Montana, is from 60 cents to $1 per head per annum.

Congressman Hazellon is in favor of submitting the prohibition question to the people, and gives publicity to his opinion on the subject.

The state of Vermont doesn't get up any enthusiasm over the political issues. The State election is held there on the 3d of September and neither party will make a canvass.

The Northern Pacific railway will be completed to Beason's Landing, the nearest point to the Yellowstone National Park, sometime during the coming fall. By next summer a branch line will be finished directly to the Park.

We publish a dispatch from Fond du Lac which puts a somewhat interesting phase on the Congressional question in General Bragg's district. State Treasurer McFetridge ventures the prediction that the Republicans of that district will yet vote for Bragg!

All the States except seven, will either elect State officers or Congressmen on the 7th of November. Arkansas will hold its election on the 4th of September, Vermont on the 5th, Maine on the 11th, Georgia on the 4th of October, and Ohio and West Virginia on the 10th.

About the queerest and the coolest thing we have heard of during the heated term, is that General Chambers, of Mississippi, the hero of the Fort Pillow massacre, will vote with the Republican side of the House if he is elected to Congress. If this be true, we may next expect to hear Hamburg, Butler knocking at the door of the Republican party.

There has never been a time until the past year that the postoffice department has paid its way. The balance-sheets of the department will be ready by the first of October, and the result will be that not only will that branch of the government pay its way, but according to Third Assistant Postmaster General Hazen, a surplus of one million dollars will be turned in the treasury.

It is claimed that Ostrich farming can be made profitable in the United States as well as in Buenos Ayres; and it is suggested by those acquainted with the business that the safe way is to ship the birds from Buenos Ayres when they are about four years old. The product of each bird is reckoned at $30 annually, but it is claimed that in the Southern States the feathers will be worth $120 a year. An ostrich two years old costs about $975, but delivered in this country a pair for breeding will demand at least $1,700. The experience in South America is that a pair of breeders will rear sixty chickens annually.

Among the strange things that happen now and then hardly anything is stranger than the German Convention which met in Chicago the latter part of last week. There were one hundred delegates in that Convention—all Germans—and they met for the purpose of promoting the cause of temperance. They even went so far as to favor prohibition, but in this they exercised prudence and did not load down their platform or constitution with a dozen other questions which have no sort of bearing upon the real point at issue. Those who have been impressed with the idea that all Germans want plenty of beer and a Sunday devoted to beer-garden sports, will now see that they have been in error.

The New York policemen seem to be vying with their Chicago fraternity in showing pluck and courage. A few days ago an officer of the latter city arrested a respectable girl, who clerked for Marshall Field, because she was hurrying home about nine o'clock at night. One evening last week an honest, hard-working and sober young man was returning from his day's labor in New York and sat down in the park for rest, and quickly fell asleep. He was arrested as a vagrant, and locked in a cell for the night, without food or permission to communicate with his parents. These policemen would hardly trouble themselves about vagabonds and street-walkers, but show their industry and efficiency by running innocent and respectable people to jail.

A very prominent temperance man in Janesville has said that the National Prohibition Convention resolved too much at its recent session in Chicago. That, no doubt, is the opinion of very many influential and earnest workers in the temperance movement. There are those in the Republican party who believe in submitting the prohibition question to the people, and who will try to make that sentiment dominant in their party, and hope for success, but they do not propose to revolt against the party and join a third party, which not only demand National prohibition, but mixes with it female suffrage and every other question which can possibly arise in our politics. The real question is nearly lost sight of the multitude of other issues which the third party want to force upon the people. We believe that the coming elections will prove that a great number of temperance Republicans cannot be seduced to join the "Prohibition" party by those means. In the language of Colonel Watrous, a party of this kind is only a Democratic helper, and for this reason there are thousands of temperance Republicans who will keep on working for temperance and still remain in the Republican party.

EGYPT.

Special to the Gazette.

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 28.—A new ministry has been formed with Meherif Pasha, as president and minister of foreign affairs; Raiz Pasha, minister of the interior; Haidi Pasha, minister of finance; Omar Lutfi Pasha, minister of war.

Arabi Pasha has withdrawn from Kassassin lake, before the advancing British. He is leading them into a trap at Tel Kibir. The Egyptians are filling the canal with dead men and animals, thus destroying the only water supply for the British.

SHOT HIS WIFE.

Special to the Gazette.

CHICAGO, Aug. 28.—Richard Wilson, a Scotchman, aged 32, shot and mortally wounded his wife, Margaret, aged 43, at his residence, Damon street, this morning. He then shot himself through the brain, dying at the hospital. He had been married thirty years. He was insanely jealous.

TERMS OF OFFICE.

Corrections of Prevalent Misapprehension About the Duration of State Officers' Terms.

MADISON, Aug. 27.—Some slight misunderstanding seems to exist throughout the State in regard to the constitutional amendment to be voted upon this fall by the people, many persons thinking it the same as the amendment passed last fall providing for biennial sessions of the Legislature. The amendment now before the people is in furtherance of the same idea, but provides for biennial election of officers, and is intended to lessen the expense and systematize the terms of different State and county officers in accordance with the previous amendment. Secretary of State Timme says that, in consequence of the provisions of the amendment, in case of its adoption, members of the Assembly elected this fall will hold for two years; State Senators will hold four years, and the State officers elected last fall will hold an additional year, or three years from their inauguration. After the expiration of the present term, however, State officers will hold their positions for a term of two years as heretofore. The session of the Legislature, which will be held the coming winter—1883, will be the first meeting of the Legislature under the biennial session law. All county officers elected last fall will hold for three years the term thereafter being two years, the same as the State officers. The adoption of this amendment, Mr. Timme said, "would not only provide for a uniform system of electing all officers, but also would lessen the cost of our elections one-half. It is estimated that the legal expense to the people of each general election is at least $50,000."

BRAGG AND DELANEY.

FOND DU LAC, Aug. 26.—It was at the City of Plymouth, Sheboygan county, that State Treasurer McFetridge, whose home is in Dodge county, hazarded the remark that he expected to vote for General Ed. S. Bragg for representative in Congress from the Second Wisconsin District. Called upon to explain, Mr. McFetridge went on to say that Mr. Delaney was morally and physically certain of the nomination at West Bend on the 6th proximo; that the Republicans would then decline to make a straight nomination; that General Bragg would then be called out as an independent candidate, and would receive the support of the Republican party in the district. Gen. Bragg's friends in Fond du Lac—among them Mr. S. M. Sneed, largely in his confidence and a political manager of experience—assert that no such scheme would be sanctioned by Gen. Bragg, and that he will certainly support the nominee of the West Bend Convention. The General is a shrewd politician, versed in all the ways that are wily, and would hardly be liable to throw away his future by a bolt. Yet uncertain things are sometimes more or less doubtful. Mr. McFetridge is a gentleman who generally gets things arranged in proper order, and he may not be far out of the way after all.

No Matter What Happens

You may rest assured that you are safe in being speedily cured by Thomas' Electric Oil, in all cases of rheumatism, neuralgia, toothache, etc. One trial only is necessary to prove its efficacy. For sale by Palmer & Stevens and Sherr & Co.

PRESIDENT ARTHUR.

NEWPORT, R. I., Aug. 27.—The President attended service at the United Congregational Church this morning. The church was crowded. To-morrow he will breakfast with Astor, hold a public reception at the Ocean House from 1 to 2 o'clock, attend A. A. Low's reception in the afternoon, and dine with John W. Ellis in the evening. The Talapoca leaves at daylight for Boston, via Wood's Hole and Nantucket, and is expected to arrive in Boston about Tuesday.

Baptist Minister's Experience.

I am a Baptist Minister, and before I even thought of being a clergyman, I graduated in medicine, but left a lucrative position for my present profession, 40 years ago. I was for many years a sufferer from quinsy: "Thomas' Electric Oil" always relieved me. I was troubled with hoarseness, and Thomas' Electric Oil always relieved me. My wife and child had diphtheria, and "Thomas' Electric Oil" cured them, and taken in time it will cure scores out of ten. I am confident it is a cure for the most obstinate cold or cough, and if any one will take a small teaspoon and half fill it with the oil, and then place the end of the spoon in one nostril and draw the oil out of the spoon into the head by sniffing as hard as they can, until the oil falls over into the throat, and practice so twice a week, I don't care how often they sneeze, it will cure it out and cure their catarrh. For deafness and earache it has done wonders to my certain knowledge. It is the only medicine dubbed patent medicine that I have ever felt like recommending, and I am very anxious to see it in every place, for I feel that I would not be without it in my house for any consideration. I am now suffering with a pain like rheumatism in my right limb, and nothing relieves me like Thomas' Electric Oil.

LABOR AND WAGES.

ELKS, Pa., Aug. 27.—About two-thirds of the old force of puddlers and helpers at the Mount Hickory Iron Works in this city went in yesterday at the same wages paid before the strike, and the balance are expected to go in to-morrow, when the puddling department will start double turn with a full complement. The men who return to work sign individual contracts and agree to regulate their own affairs with the company without reference to the orders of the amalgamated or any other association.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27.—The Central Labor Union of this city indorse the strike of the Boston longshoremen.

SURPLUS EARNINGS.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 27.—Third Assistant Postmaster General Hazen stated today that although the return for the last quarter of the last fiscal year are not in yet, that the department, after paying all expenses, will put about $1,000,000 into the Treasury on account of the fiscal year just closed. The department was self-sustaining during the war, and never since. The revocation of the famous ruling which permitted the transmission of mixed written and printed matter at third-class rates and the reductions on the star routes account for $1,000,000 surplus.

KANSAS.

LEAVENWORTH, Aug. 27.—It has been learned through private sources here that ex-Senator Pomerooy will canvass the State this fall against the reelection of Senator Plumb and for St. John for the United States Senate. Pomerooy's friends say that Plumb owed his election six years ago to Pomerooy; that they were personal friends until Folger succeeded Windom as Secretary of the Treasury, and Pomerooy, upon the promise of Plumb's assistance, was a candidate for the position of First Assistant Secretary. Plumb did not carry out his promise, but, on the contrary, refused charge to induce Pomerooy, and now the ex-Senator will take the stump and challenge Plumb with being connected with star-route and New York Stock-Board transactions. Hostilities are rapidly developing between the Plumb and St. John forces, and the friends of Plumb here generally concede that his re-election can only be effected by the defeat of St. John for Governor and the election of an anti-Prohibition Legislature.

GEN. GORDON, of Georgia, was one of Gen. Lee's most trusted officers, and to him, it is said, was due Lee's final decision at Appomattox. Grant had demanded Lee's surrender and Lee had refused; another day had passed; Lee sent word to Gordon to know whether anything more could be done; with a handful of men Gordon confronted an impregnable barrier of steel. "It's hopeless," was Gordon's reply. When Lee heard of Gordon's opinion he dropped his head and said, "Then we have done all that can be done," and consented to surrender.

Here is the Kabyle idea of a "tale." "An old man had seven sons. His wife died and he remained a widower. Once his sons were seated and talking. The youngest of them said to his brothers, 'Come, O my brothers! let us sell some goats, and with the price of them marry our father again.' They dropped the subject of conversation and passed to another. The old man said to them, 'Let us return to the conversation about the goats.'"—Barclay's Mountain Life in Algeria.

A Memory of the War.

When Mrs. Mary A. Livermore lectured in Albion, Mich., one day, at the close of the lecture, an elderly, white-haired woman approached her, with the following inquiry: "Do you remember writing a letter for John—of the twelve Michigan volunteers, when he lay dying at the Overton Hospital at Memphis during the spring of 1863, and of completing the letter to his wife and mother after he had died?"

Mrs. Livermore replied that she wrote so many letters during the war, under similar circumstances, that she could not recall any particular case.

The woman drew a letter from her pocket that had been torn in pieces in the folds of the note and was then stitched together with fine sewing-cotton.

"Do you remember this letter?" she asked.

Mrs. Livermore recognized her penmanship and admitted her authorship of the letter. The first four pages were written to his wife and mother, at the dictation of a young soldier who had been shot through the lungs and was dying of the wound. Then she had completed the letter by the addition of the verses written by herself, beside the dead husband and son, in which she sought to comfort the bereaved relatives.

"I think my daughter-in-law and I would have died when we heard that John was dead, but for this letter," said the worn and weary-looking woman. "It comforted us both, and by-and-by, when we heard of other women similarly aided, we sent them the letter to read, till it was worn in places. (The woman sewed the pieces together and made copies of the letter, which we sent to those of our acquaintance whom the war bereft.

"But Annie, my son's wife, never got over John's death. She kept about, and worked and went to church, but the life had gone out of her. Eight years ago she died of gastric fever. One day, a little before her death, she said: 'Mother, if you ever find Mrs. Livermore, or hear of her, I wish you would give her my wedding ring, which has never been off my finger since John put it there, and which will not be taken off till I am dead. Ask her to wear it for John's sake and mine, and tell her that this was my dying request.'"

"I live eight miles from here," continued the woman, "and when I read in the papers that you were to lecture here to-night I decided to drive over and give you the ring, if you will accept it."

Deeply affected by this touching narrative, not a particular of which is she able to recall, Mrs. Livermore extended her hand, and the widowed and childless woman put the ring on her finger, with a fervently-uttered benediction.—Youth's Companion.

Can't Recover.

"No, this town has never recovered from the war," said the Virginian, as he crossed his legs and looked up and down the deserted street.

"Was it burned?"

"No."

"Any of its people killed off?"

"No."

"Have any great manufacturing establishments been removed?"

"We never had any to remove."

"Any epidemic frightened the people away?"

"Not as I know of."

"Then why is it that the town has never recovered from the war?"

"Well, some lay it to this and some to that, but it's my opinion that what ails this town is the fact that a man will come here from New York and peep around and ask questions and want to know all about everything and everybody, and never even ask a leading citizen if he is dry! I tell you such a line of policy, if pursued for ten or fifteen years, takes the ambition right out of men."—Wall Street Daily News.

Their Kind of Dog.

"Now, boys," said the teacher, "I need not tell you anything further of the duty of cultivating a kindly disposition; but I will tell you a little story about two dogs. George had a nice little dog, that was as gentle as a lamb. He would sit by George's side quietly for an hour at a time. He would not bark at the passers-by nor at strange dogs, and would never bite anybody or anything. Thomas' dog, on the contrary, was always fighting other dogs, and would sometimes tear them quite cruelly. He would also fly at the hens and cats in the neighborhood, and on several occasions he had been known to seize a cow by the nostrils and throw her. He barked at all the strange men who came along, and would bite them unless somebody interfered. Now, boys, which was the dog you would like to own, George's or Thomas'?" Instantly came the answer in one eager shout, "Thomas'!"—Boston Transcript.

Dealing with a Liar.

The only way to deal with a liar is to beat him at his own game. That is, of course, unless he is the editor of a pious newspaper. What started this item was reading about an American who had been to Europe, and who was telling a friend, who knew he was a liar, about his trip across the Atlantic, and how on the 25th of the month "they encountered a swarm of locusts, and the locusts carried away every stitch of canvas off the ship." The listener looked thoughtful a moment, and then said, hesitatingly, "Yes, I guess we met the same swarm of locusts the next day, the 26th. Every locust had on a pair of canvas pants." The first liar went around a corner and kicked himself.—Puck's Sun.
